The Celebrate Peoples' History Poster Series is a project which produces beautiful and thought-provoking posters that celebrate and educate about important radical events and people in our history. We should celebrate these points of resistance but usually don't because our history is controlled by a social system that reproduces a classist, racist, sexist, homophobic, and national chauvinistic understanding of the past. These posters have been and will continue to be posted publically (i.e. wheatpasted on the street in cities across the country, put up in peoples' home and storefront windows, and used in classrooms) in an attempt to help generate a discussion about our radical past, a discussion which is vital in preparing us to create a revolutionary future. This project has also created both a loose network of artists interested in creating radical public art and a showcase for the work of unknown artists that want to create art that is functional, carries a social message, and doesn't get buried at the bottom of the heap of the capitalist "art world."

Subscriptions are now available for the third set of ten, which will be printed over the course of 2004-2005. It was subscriptions (first offered in 2001) and donations that really launched this project into it's current position where about 10 posters can be produced every year and a half. It is really important to this project that subscriptions keep coming in!

I want to invite you to subscribe to the Celebrate Peoples' History Poster Series (Set #3) in order to help keep it alive and vibrant.

If you subscribe you will receive ten posters as they are produced.

CELEBRATE PEOPLE'S HISTORY

A subscription simply costs $25-$50, plus $6 for postage (so $31-$56 total). Over the last couple years postage has been killing me, so unfortunately I have to add it to the cost at this point. All other money goes directly to printing the posters, approximately $350 per poster. Thank you for your support!!
