

Font Forgeries

by Greenstreet Software alias GST Technology

by The Quick Brown Fox alias Brendel & Pabst

1. In the 1990s, the German company Brendel und Pabst alias B & P Graphics Ltd. alias Brendel Informatik GmbH in Cologne made a lot of font forgeries also sold by the Softmaker GmbH (see <http://www.sanskritweb.net/forgers/megafont.pdf>). Brendel Informatik was sued by Fontshop in Berlin (LG Köln, Az. 28 O 133/97). Thereafter Wilhelm Welsch, who had run Brendel Informatik GmbH, liquidated his company and founded a new one „The Quick Brown Fox GmbH“ in Cologne that is still selling most of the old forgeries (see <http://www.qbf.de/english.htm>).
2. In 1989, the British company GST Technology Ltd. was founded producing e.g. the word processor „1stWord Plus“ for Atari ST. In the 1990s, GST sold several font forgery CDs containing fonts by Brendel & Pabst and by other companies. GST (denoting „GreenStreet Technology“) was sued by Linotype. Thereafter the GST outfit was liquidated and a „new one“ founded, Greenstreet Software Ltd., that is still selling most of the old forgeries as various font collection CDs (see <http://www.greenstreetsoftware.info>).
3. Below we describe five Greenstreet CD font collections which were incriminated by font forger Bruno Steinert in the lawsuit Linotype vs. GST alias Greenstreet: „100 Fonts True Type“ (see pp. 2–5), „1000 Professional Fonts“ (see pp. 6–47), „500 Fantastic Fonts“ (see pp. 48–68), „500 Elegant Fonts“ (see pp. 69–68), and „2000 Fonts Collection“ (see p. 89). As regards the lawsuit, see below p. 89-90.

5. Greenstreet CD „2000 Fonts Collection“

This font forgery CD „2000 Font Collection“, sold in Germany by eVisionTeam GbR in 21039 Börnsen (see <http://evisionteam.de>), contains all fonts of the other three Greenstreet CDs as follows:

1. „2000 Font Collection“ contains the 1000 fonts of „1000 Professional Fonts“ (see above pp. 6–47). All 1000 fonts of both CDs are 100% identical without exception.
2. „2000 Font Collection“ contains the 500 fonts of „500 Fantastic Fonts“ (see above pp. 48–68). All 500 fonts of both CDs are 100% identical with the exception of these four fonts: EPIGONE.TTF, HARPUNE.TTF, KLIMBIM.TTF, MONTEREY.TTF, which differ slightly from the fonts of the other CD as far as glyphs are concerned.
3. „2000 Font Collection“ contains the 500 fonts of „500 Elegant Fonts“ (see above pp. 69-86). All 500 fonts of both CDs are 100% identical with the exception of these twelve fonts: ALICELIG.TTF, ARIZONA.TTF, CAESAR.TTF, CHINESE.TTF, DARLING.TTF, FINESSE.TTF, FINETEXT.TTF, LANSING.TTF, LAURIN.TTF, MILANB.TTF, PUPPET.TTF, ROSITA.TTF, which differ slightly from the fonts of the other CD as far as glyphs (or rather internal glyph names) are concerned.

This means that none of the forged fonts incriminated by font forger Bruno Steinert in the lawsuit were removed from the Greenstreet CDs, and these CDs were not „delivered up and destroyed“. For example, the forgery "Chanson" contained on the "500 Fantastic Fonts" CD and provided by the forgers in Cologne with the false copyright notice "(C) 1994 Brendel Informatik GmbH" is a forgery of the font "Arcadia" designed by Neville Brody in 1990. This forgery is still contained in the "500 Fantastic Fonts" CD sold today in 2005, and it is also still contained in the „2000 Font Collection“ CD sold today in 2005 by eVision GbR in Germany and by Greenstreet in Great Britain. So it seems that Bruno Steinert forged his press release:

Excerpt from Bruno Steinert's press release:

Linotype gains High Court judgement in UK font copyright case Order granted against GreenStreet Software

London, September 19, 2001

Linotype Library has won its High Court claim against Cambridge software publisher GreenStreet Technologies (GST) for infringing the copyright in the design of a number of its typefaces, including Neue Helvetica.

Linotype, together with its parent Heidelberger Druckmaschinen, brought its case to the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, in March 2001 claiming that GST was infringing the copyright of the design of four typeface families from the Linotype Library – Arcadia, Duc de Berry, Herculanum and Neue Helvetica. Linotype's claim was based on the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988. On 24th July Mr Justice Etherton issued the order against GST injuncting against further infringements and to deliver up and destroy all infringing materials and provide Linotype with a comprehensive list of all parties from whom the fonts were obtained and to whom they were sold. The issue of damages continues to be pursued.

Linotype had earlier purchased samples of four of GST products – 100 Fonts True Type, 500 Fantastic Fonts, 1000 Professional Fonts and 2000 Fonts Collection to gain its evidence against the company. A total of 122 fonts were found to infringe Linotype's intellectual property rights, prompting its high level action against the publisher.

Bruno Steinert, general manager of Linotype Library emphasised the significance of the win. "This judgement against GST marks an important stage of our fight against font piracy that is rife among low-cost consumer aimed software products around the world. The UK is a prime market for high quality fonts and this High Court order supporting our claim for copyright, particularly in respect of Neue Helvetica™, is a milestone achievement for the whole type industry. Our policy of pursuing whatever means available to assert our legal rights is paying off and will continue."

see http://www.linotype.com/13762/19_09_01-doc.html

If GST had been ordered „to deliver up and destroy all infringing materials“ in 2001, then how come that the „infringing materials“ are still sold today in 2005? It was easy for me in July 2005 to buy examination copies of all five CDs through sellers, e.g. eVisionTeam, and the Greenstreet CDs are even sold by the large Canon Inc., see below. This means that Greenstreet did never „deliver up and destroy all infringing material“. Therefore it seems that Bruno Steinert forged his press release.
