Note: Segoe started as a clone made by Monotype (forgers: Steve Matteson et al.) of the old Frutiger font. Later, several letters were forged (e.g. round dots on i, j, colon etc. instead of square dots, 1 with foot serif etc.), and the weight (thickness) of all letters was reduced by 10%. Much later, additional letters (e.g. &, I, Q) were forged by Microsoft (forgers: Simon Daniels et al.) with intent to hide the origin of the illegal forgery.
